

University of New Orleans

College of Sciences Undergraduate Research Program (COSURP)

We are pleased to announce that, starting in the spring semester 2010, the College of Sciences is initiating a new Undergraduate Research Program for freshmen and sophomores. Our goal is to engage students in research with faculty and graduate students in any of the seven departments. Not only will you get to closely interact with faculty and graduate students, but you will also gain insight into science careers and participate in social activities with other COSURP students. Students will be required to work 10 hours per week and you will be paid $10 per hour. Your faculty sponsor will also receive funding for supplies. You may also be able to receive course credit for independent research depending upon department requirements. This program is not intended for only our best students but we want to include those students at-risk of leaving UNO. We anticipate that 15-20 students will be selected for this program. Please feel free to contact Steve Johnson (see below) if you have any questions. We are very excited about this new program!

University of New Orleans

Steve Johnson, Interim Dean
College of Sciences, Sciences 1100
University of New Orleans
New Orleans, LA 70148

Phone: 504-280-6303
E-mail: sciences@uno.edu

Deadline for receipt of applications is Dec 1, 2009.
Application materials and list of faculty sponsors can be found at: <http://cosc.uno.edu/cosurp.cfm>